

PROTECT CLIENTS' ESTATE PLANS FROM UNNECESSARY RISK

Clients sometimes make emotional decisions when planning their estate, like naming a close friend or family member as their trustee. Here's why that could put their plans at risk.

You can help ensure your clients' trusts are protected by urging them to hire a corporate trustee.

It's natural to rely on personal connections for important matters, but when it comes to your clients' wealth, it's usually not worth the risk. Be sure your clients know the benefits of enlisting professional help from someone who can dedicate the proper time and attention to their estate plan.
